

ABSTRACT

The present invention is related to an edible film having distinct regions, wherein at least one region has a composition that is different from at least one other region.